Reed Squyres

Project Manager

Reed Squyres, a graduate in Construction Management from University of Houston and a Marine Corps Veteran, has been in residential construction since 2013. Starting his construction career with a production builder, Reed quickly developed a passion overseeing the home building process. After a year in production building, he moved into the custom home building sector, where he managed a $4M+, 8 home community in The Heights and several Historical Remodels. Reed has been with Memory Builders since 2016, aiding in the pre-construction process, estimating and scheduling, ensures his involvement through the entire building process is accurate and successful. He accredits his military background to his attention to detail and ability to guide the build schedule from start to finish. During his down time, Reed enjoys trying to perfect his hobby in woodworking and relaxing with his wife and kids.
